JEROME'S NEWSLETTER

September – October 2013

From the Mayor

Without much noise, Jerome quietly passed and enacted a civil union ordinance. No one showed up to the meetings to speak out against, or fervently support this issue... and I know its not because we lack civic engagement in this town! How wonderful that our town held up no opposition to supporting our delightfully diverse population!

So, what have we done? How is it different than marriage? How will the rest of Arizona respond? Our civil union ordinance is certainly not as broad as a proper marriage. First, it isn't accompanied by marriage & divorce law, which maps out alimony and such. It does, however provide room for a committed, previously unmarried couple to scribble down some agreements about property, finances, and medical care and have it available on file in the Town of Jerome for a one-time fee of $73. And if both parties agree, it can be ripped up as well. While many are fighting or the full rights of marriage, not everyone wants the full responsibility that comes with it and I think this ordinance could be quite meaningful for all of the less-conventional couples in Jerome!

This ordinance also extends the option of spousal benefits to the civilly united. This is certainly the case for Town employees but other companies, within town limits or not, can choose to honor this civil union in the same fashion. Nurses Network Inc. has done this for many years now for insurance purposes.

While the majority of Jerome residents feel this is a wonderful thing, we must also be sensitive to the fact that this is an extremely controversial topic and it may be more difficult for other municipalities to follow this lead – though I would strongly encourage it!

While preparing to speak to the press about this (The Verde Independent and KTAR have covered this so far) I began thinking deeply about this issue and how it relates to civil rights and ideological tyranny. I find it so interesting that, thus far, the ideological discomfort of those that oppose gay marriage has been honored over the rights of the LGBT community – Which I assume provides ideological discomfort by just existing for some people. It's silly to think that those bothered will magically change their mind on the topic, but it is simply outrageous to continue to deny basic rights to a section of the population.

And so, dear residents, I hope that you can all be proud of what Jerome has accomplished here, and I hope to have your continued support, even if we receive some negative attention for enacting this ordinance. Thank You!

Mayor Nikki Check

Hi Neighbors

Soon we will be putting some nasty, persistent, snarling, booby-trapped, agonizing problems to rest, yeah!

Work has begun on the Cleopatra Hill water tanks, yippee! When they are off-line, our water pressure is a bit less.

One of the next big, hairy projects your Council will undertake will be making our water & sewer rates closer to reality and fairer.

Do watch us, come to meetings, give us your ideas & opinions. I still dream of the Gulch Radio getting from Town a relay (booster?) on top of the Hotel Jerome in trade for live broadcasting of Council meetings plus any other controversial meetings. That way you could all hear how those you elected are representing you.

Have a great autumn!

AS THE EGG FRIES

Not everything hinges on Town politics.

Cole Hemleben is having a birthday party, and I've been commissioned to produce a birthday cake. I like Cole, and you're only eleven once, so I want to do something snazzy. Today I've chosen a Gâteau St. Honoré, a great collection of puff pastry, cream puffs, pastry cream, Italian meringue, caramel and – in this case – strawberries and chocolate shavings. I hope he likes it.

Saint Honoré is the patron saint of bakers and pastry chefs. He was a French bishop in the late 500s...it's a long story, but his cake (gâteau) is fun to make and more fun to eat. Nobody says he was a cook, or even if he was interested in food, but the bakers' guild in fifteenth century Paris certainly liked him, and set up their headquarters in his church. Then they created this confection in his honor.

As I write this I'm running between my office and my kitchen, between my computer and my oven. At this point I've laid out the puff pastry base, made the choux layer, and baked it up with some extra puffs. I've made the crème pâtissière and chilled it overnight. I have yet to make the meringue, caramelize the puffs, finish the Chiboust cream, stuff and spread, pipe a bunch of whipped cream rosettes, crown it all with the berries and chocolate. But then poof! She is done!

What a nice change from the stew at Town Hall.

Yikes! It's already noon and the party's at four! Got to go.

2013 Pink Heals Event

This year's event was held on August 10, at Windmill Park in Cornville. There was a $5 dinner, from hotdogs off the grill to strawberry soup, and many raffle prizes and silent auction items.

The Switchbacks entertained with their Tuck & Roll and Rockabilly Soul – lots of dancing!

Money is still coming in so there is no final count yet, but it looks to be around $2,000.

There were no big pink trucks but we had a little red truck, which will soon be painted pink, and there was a banner for people to sign.

Thank you all who supported this year's event!

Jerome Library to Feature Author Bill Carter

On Friday, September 27, at 6:00 p.m., the Jerome Library will be featuring renowned author, Bill Carter.

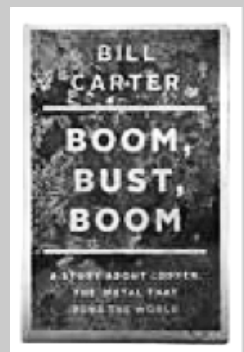

journalist. He's the director of the documentary film, MISS SARAJEVO (produced by Bono, of the Irish rock band U2) and author of the books Fools Rush In and Red Summer.

Come and hear Mr. Carter talk about his new book, Boom, Bust, Boom: A Story about Copper, the Metal That Runs the World.

Starting in his own backyard in the old mining town of Bisbee — where he discovers that the dirt in his garden contains double the acceptable level of arsenic — Carter has created a sweeping account of civilization's complete dependence on copper and what it means for humanity, the environment, and our global economy.

Bill Carter manages to make the story of Copper both fascinating and accessible. He asks the important questions and finds the answers we can all do something with... Boom, Bust, Boom is no less than a call to action. In our own backyard

Bill Carter, a native Californian, is an award-winning documentary filmmaker, photographer and

Greetings From Haven UMC

Well, it's hard to believe that Janet and I have been at Haven UMC for a year now, the "little closer to Heaven" church on the hill. We have made many friends in Jerome and hope to add more to the list.

We at Haven, of course, invite all Jeromites to come to worship at 9:00 a.m. Sunday mornings.

The "Food Pantry" has new hours on Thursdays, from 10:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon. We are here to serve the community in all their needs, and will continue adding clothes to the "Food Pantry" as well. None of this could happen if not for the generosity of the community.

Peace and grace,

Pastors Janet & Mike
